Course in healthcare management

The Sankara Nethralaya Academy (TSNA) and Medical Research Foundation, Chennai has invited applications for a weekend course in Healthcare Management.

The course is intended to provide hospital management professionals with a broad perspective of the topics related to management with emphasis on healthcare delivery.

The pedagogy is healthcare specific and designed to address the concerns of the hospital administrators/executives/supervisors. This course aims to keep the participants abreast of the latest trends in healthcare management with topics designed to address contemporary issues in a healthcare organisation.

The course is designed to increase the overall understanding of management issues and concepts by mid-level and senior managers to help them make well-informed decisions, and is open for individuals in the supervisory/executive or managerial positions in hospitals.

The course can be pursued by individuals who are desirous of moving to a management position from their current level in the healthcare industry. Graduate students who would like to have an overview of healthcare management. Physicians and surgeons who are managing their own healthcare institutions and who could use these inputs to run their institutions.

This course will be conducted over 12 weekends on Saturdays between 2 pm and 5 pm at Sankara Nethralaya main Campus. The session will commence on January 18. The last date for receiving applications is January 10.
